

Little Tips and Tricks!

Sharing Knowledge that Counts!

Pam Little, CPA

DECEMBER 2019

Vacation: What you should know as an employer

There's an App for that- apps to make the new year easy!

We all are familiar with the balancing act we get into when owning a small business. Let's be honest things can get busy and overwhelming at the best of times. There are simple ways we can take some of the stress off and have things run a bit smoother. Here are some apps to use in 2020 to help.

Read More

Boardroom Rental

Need some space for an hour, half day, or full day? Book our modern boardroom for 10-12 people. Free parking, coffee/tea/water, WIFI, big screen TV with Chromecast or HDMI connection and a whiteboard for mapping your ideas. For your convenience you can book directly through our website <https://pamlittlecpa.com/boardroom-rental/>

In the News...

Why taxpayers cannot rely on the CRA advice

It should come as no surprise to anyone who has ever regularly dealt with the Canadian Revenue Agency that the CRA isn't always right when it comes to tax law. That's why the Tax Court of Canada exists.

Read More

Condo Flipping- know the tax implications before you get involved

In recent years, the Canada Revenue Agency (the "CRA") has become more critical of real estate transactions claiming tax non-compliance has contributed to increasing housing prices.

Read More

How much tip should you leave?

A lot of what people hate about tipping is the uncertainty of it all. There's no widely agreed-upon rule book for when to tip, and how much to pay. And so we rationalize and agonize about whether a 20-percent tip is the new standard in restaurants an.

Read More

Pam Little is a Chartered Professional Accountant with over 20 years of experience. She helps small and mid-sized businesses manage their revenue and expense accounts and maximize tax deductions. To book a consultation contact Pam Little, CPA at pam@pamlittlecpa.com or call 416-268-1605. Website: www.pamlittlecpa.com

LinkedIn

Facebook

Email